Shortcut for full screen chromebook. Full screen shortcut command. What is the shortcut for full screen. How to go full screen shortcut. Chrome shortcut open full screen. Shortcut key for full screen in chrome. Shortcut key for full screen in google chrome.

Everyone has a favorite web page that they navigate to as soon as they open their web browser. Whether it's CNN, Gmail, or your most beloved tech site (ours), we all have that one page we consider more important than the rest. This is why you'll want to know how to create a shortcut to a website on your desktop, so you can find out what's happening in the world right away, not two minutes behind. Thankfully, Google Chrome makes it easy to drop clickable links onto your desktop, letting you jump to a web page in one click. Here's how to create desktop shortcuts for your favorite web pages using Chrome. How to create a desktop shortcut with Google Chrome1. Navigate to your favorite page and click the ⋮ icon in the upper-right corner of the screen.2. Select More tools.3. Select Create shortcut.4. Edit the shortcut name.5. Click Create. If you check Open as Window, the next time you open the link, it will open without an editable search bar. Now you've got a desktop shortcut that takes you directly to Chrome! Now that you've mastered this little trick, check out our guides for how to change your password in Windows 10 and how to password protect a folder in Windows 10. Burned out on Windows? Check out our guide to the best Chromebooks and how to use Chrome's Dark Mode. Chrome allows you to create multiple profiles, each with a different set of bookmarks, search history, settings, toolbar buttons, among other things. You can switch among your profiles, each profile opening in a separate Chrome window. RELATED: Everything You Need to Know About Google Chrome's Profile Switcher Unlike Firefox, which provides the ability to select a profile every time you start it, Chrome always opens to the default profile. What if you occasionally want to start Chrome using a profile other than the default profile? Normally, you would have to open a Chrome window and then switch to another profile from that browser window. However, you can set up a desktop shortcut to open Chrome directly into a specific profile and you can create one of these shortcuts for each profile you have in Chrome. Read on to find out how easy it is. Open Chrome and click the profile badge in the upper-right corner of the window on the title bar. Click "Switch person" on the popup dialog box. A dialog box displays containing icons with names for all your Chrome profiles. Click on the profile icon for which you want to create a desktop shortcut. A new Chrome window opens using the chosen profile. The name of the profile displays on the profile badge. Click the Chrome menu button (three horizontal bars) in the upper-right corner of the browser window, and select "Settings" from the drop-down menu. On the Settings page, scroll down to the People section and click on the current person, or profile. Then, click "Edit". The Edit dialog box displays. To add a shortcut to your desktop that allows you to open Chrome directly to the currently selected profile, click "Add desktop shortcut". You can also change the picture for your profile by clicking on a new one, and you can change the name of the profile in the Name edit box. When you've added a shortcut for this profile to your desktop, the "Add desktop shortcut" button becomes the "Remove desktop shortcut" button. Click "Save". Notice that the avatar on my profile has changed in the list of People. A shortcut now exists on your desktop with the name you specified. Double-click on the shortcut to open Chrome using that profile. You can also pin the shortcut to the Taskbar for easy access when you have other programs open on your desktop. Simply right-click on the desktop shortcut and select "Pin to taskbar" from the popup menu. Both the shortcut on the desktop and on the Taskbar shows the avatar you selected for that profile on the Chrome icon. The secret to easy web browsing is right at your fingertips—literally. By learning a few keyboard shortcuts on Google Chrome, you can speed up your online searches without ever taking your hands off the keyboard. There's no need to enable anything, either. Using these Chrome shortcuts really is as simple as pressing the right combination of keys. So, what will you be able to do? For starters, open new tabs, save bookmarks, scroll through web pages, and find exactly what you're looking for. And whether you've got a Mac or a PC, we've got you covered. Just print out these cheat sheets and you'll be good to go! If you happen to be logging on to check your email, learn these Gmail shortcuts, too. Chrome keyboard shortcuts for Mac Perhaps you found an amazing article to save, or maybe you want to keep your online search away from prying eyes. No matter what you're hoping to do, there's a good chance your Mac has a key (or two) for that. Instead of using a mouse to browse the web, Mac users can rely on the Command key to help them do everything from opening a hyperlink to switching between tabs. These iPad and iPhone keyboard shortcuts will also come in handy if you have multiple Apple devices. There's no UI—just a full-screen browser window with a scrollbar, so you'll have to take it out of full-screen mode to enter a new URL. (though you can open a new tab with Ctrl+T and search from there). You'll need to download the Google Chrome Channel Chooser and switch to the Dev channel to get the latest updates if you're brave enough to deal with potential problems of an experimental build.
